

being and becoming online

The design of a holistic training programme to innovate online teaching experience

This presentation

Introduces the conceptual architecture of a training programme currently under development in two UK universities

A holistic approach to digital teaching experience in HE

The innovative characteristic of the training programme consists in its holistic approach

The focus is on the teaching experience not on teaching

The aim of the training programme is to innovate the online teaching experience

Transitions between online and offline experience are crucial spaces and places
